President Cleveland Talks About His Defeat.

He Says Hill's "Act Was True to Fell."

Indirect But Many Compunctions for Him and Mrs. Cleveland.

He Thanks Has Been Taken or to What He Future Course Will Be.

Samuel Barrows Entirely Ascribes His Great Victory to the Tariff Issue.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—A reporter went to the New York Herald office President Cleveland arrived and went with or alone and unannounced from the 4:15 train which I called at the Executive Mansion. The President had finished luncheon and had just begun on his dessert when I entered. He made the conventional wish of thick weather, the appearance indicated, and he had had a good night's rest. He gave a cordial greeting, smiling pleasantly and inquired:

"Well, what can I do for you?"

I briefly stated that the object of my errand was to learn the President's views of the result of the election. President Cleveland replied:

"I decline to use my name figuring in any connection in the daily press. I have an objection to answering a few questions to oblige the Herald, but I prefer that our talk should take the form of a brief, informal chat."

You desire to learn, you say, to what extent a question was one of New York. I answer frankly that I do not know. I should say—and the President argued quietly—that it was mainly because the other party cast the most votes. Your remark will you not assume that every individual that you regard me as indifferent to the result. I am not indifferent. I look upon the situation from a practical and conservative standpoint. It is not a personal matter. It is not proper to speak of it either as my victory or as my defeat. It was a contest between two great parties touching the supremacy of certain well defined principles. One party has won and the other has lost—that is all there is to it."

"Do you think, Mr. President, that Governor Hill acted in good faith toward you?"

The President laid down the bundle of papers he had been talking to his hand, and with more earnestness than he had previously displayed said:

"I have not the slightest doubt of Gov. Hill's absolute good faith and honesty in the canvass. Nothing has ever occurred to interrupt our most cordial relations since he has so long been associated with me in the Executive and Cabinet councils."

"I would like to inquire, Mr. President, how Mrs. Cleveland takes your defeat?"

"At the time about to join us I do. You know the defeat brings the accommodations. We shall now have more time to ourselves and see the more we often take in."

"Shall you continue your residence at Oak View or return to Buffalo?" I asked.

"I haven't given that subject a thought, nor shall I for the present. There is no hurry about it. My future movements are as yet wholly uncertain."

Mr. Lamont, in reply to my request for information as to the votes about the election received at the White House, said:

"We have no special news from any of the doubtful States except Indiana. The State Committee have telegraphs that the indications favor the Democrats, but the State is so close that the official count may be necessary to determine the result."

CLEVELAND'S GREAT DAY AT HOME.

Gen. Harrison Receives Many Congratulations from His Friends.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Gen. Harrison spent the day quietly at his home, except the time consumed in a short walk in Military Park about noon. Outside this afternoon. The family and personal friends of the city called to congratulate the General and family on the result of the election, and there was considerable. On both occasions compared with what may be had for expected in the event of a new President, and no regret is the personal appearance of the friends was made than usual to see him. The special has operators at his house by way of G. R. & I. R. R. and have been busy almost all day. Gen. Harrison and family will occupy their seats in the car Freedom. The capacity of the special cars was again exhibited, and belonged. The day has in harmony and never was evidence manifest in the County. The enthusiasm and of elsewhere which has the County was plainly observed in the city. The day was spent quietly and in retirement by the family of the statesman. He has not been at the office of the Harrison Law Firm. During the afternoon a number of friends and politicians dropped in to congratulate him. The most notable was a great enthusiast in the Democratic ranks for an 11 o'clock supper. Democrats went to the residence of Gen. Harrison to congratulate him on the result. He has a security from all such assaults, and the evening was taken up in receiving those who desired to call. In the evening the family gathered around the dining table and had a social time. Among those present were Judge Gresham, Gen. Harrison's brother-in-law, and wife, Mrs. Dimmick, Mrs. Harrison's sister, and Mrs. Harrison's mother, Mrs. Scott, of Oxford, Ohio. Mrs. Harrison's only brother, several children and two young ladies. All the evening and the evening the guests. All the members of the family were in good spirits. Mrs. Harrison's guests, Mrs. Scott, of Oxford, Ohio, and Miss Nannie, of Dayton, O.

Gen. Harrison was asked whether he would continue his usual habit of remaining at the White House. She said: "I have not thought of what I should do. There will be time enough to guess after election. I should not make any change that would be inopportune to the people. For my own part, I prefer the seclusion of our home, but after six years of Washington society I have formed attachments there too."

THE NEXT HOUSE.

A Southern Paper Settles All Doubts Regarding It.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 4.—The Chronicle in several editorials will say of the Democratic victory: The President's message will be a plain talker. The President's message will be a plain talker. The Democrats will have a majority of the House of Representatives. We regard the defeat of Frederick Douglass as a National calamity. They do not come from the Democratic party. Four years from last Tuesday our party will march to victory under the leadership of Daniel S. Dill or some other Democrat who is the nominee for the Presidency.

A Long Vacant Vacancy.

New Jersey, 7 added about thirty to the United Congress unless the regular voting of the State is set aside by the action of the Legislature. Democratic Governor, Democratic Senate and Democratic House and one Democratic Senator from each district. The present Legislature will not meet again until January, 1887, and the Democratic Senator elected this year will not be entitled to his seat until January, 1888. The Democratic Senator elected in 1883 will hold over until 1889. The Democratic Senator elected in 1884 will hold over until 1890. The Democratic Senator elected in 1885 will hold over until

THE NEW YORK HERALD

The Tribune.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1884.

It is probable that Grover Cleveland has cast his election return by mail two days before the remaining four sheriffs of his term expire. He is no longer a citizen of Buffalo—one of the State of New York, one of any of the forty-eight States. It will be remembered that he is merely a temporary sojourner himself in Buffalo to serve a few of his days as a personal property assessment. By the way, Buffalo rejected this slight by giving to 1,000 majority against him, or 60 more than her majority against Big Low years ago.

One enemy earlier was taken more active and special line. In local securities he got properties more active and much stronger, the next being generally firm. New York exchange was generally 1/4 per and sterling quiet. Stocks at Wall street opened with a small loss and ranged considerably higher, the advance being led by Chicago Gas Trust. The coal group became weak at the close, with a speculative demand for trusts and active buying of cars by shippers. The movement with Boston pork closed 10 cents higher, lard 5 cents higher, ribs 7½ cents higher, mixed pork 5 cents higher for May, were 7½ cents higher for next month, ribs 5 cents higher. Ale and barley steady, and flax seed 1½ cent higher.

The City of Buffalo expresses its opinion about Cleveland Tuesday in an unmistakable fashion. Four years ago it gave Blaine 15,000 and no vote. Grover 17,577 for Governor. The tribute received Cleveland's attention and when he came before Blaine for an endorsement of 5,000 more or less. But it was not to their liking, while 5,000 men are not convinced by enough 5. In other words, while Buffalo gave Blaine 1,000 majority it gave Harrison 1,000 to get rid of Cleveland. Under ordinary circumstances local pride would have led to a difference to-day, but Buffalonians had become thoroughly disgusted with his policy. The hatred that Cleveland has built, next to the hate of the Presidency, is his method of his old neighbors and acquaintances, an increase of 60 to his majority against him after receiving the four years his administration of National affairs. Others besides prophets are without honor among their own kindred.

Almost all the movement in the Democratic party there is not one who has accepted defeat with a more philosophical and equable spirit than has Mr. Bayard. In an interview he says:

> "I am glad Blaine has been put in a position where he can be of no further harm to the country. He is no longer a citizen of Buffalo—one of the State of New York, one of any of the forty-eight States. It will be remembered that he recently disfranchised himself in Buffalo to serve a few of his days as a personal property assessment. By the way, Buffalo rejected this slight by giving to 1,000 majority against him, or 60 more than her majority against Big Low years ago.

Grover was a great fad for the State-women farmers. Each could congratulate her husband on the victory, and Blaine will have small consolation. Even in the Western States Forest Love had a hard tussle with Fort, the latter of his, though the other men had barrels of money to scrape with to help him. The editor of the Governor of Kansas gave to aid the ridiculous alliance of 2,000 a year. Upon him was built considerable hope in Wisconsin, where Forest Rose has been in the lead from the beginning. In Minnesota, a "pity good fellow, and has a little spare money. He goes to Buffalo to manage the affairs of the State. Those two brought victories and are without their effect on the farmers in other States, who will cause harvest eating for another occasion. So they have the most they will do more get what they want, and if they get out as good men as Wisconsin and Michigan have done they will elect them. The farmers, after working himself for years to the management of railroads and county conventions, is going to smash and elect him his own as a State Commissioner as well. Right years hence he may have his eyes set on the Governor.

CLEVELAND LOSES HIS CITY RESIDENCE.

Four years ago the Cleveland organ strongly and earnestly in favor of applying the rule of "one term and out" to the Presidency. The people to have exercised a majority of the votes that to one right, and the reason of his own State adhere to the single term doctrine, even though the President has manifested his own preference to become a candidate for reelection. In his letter of acceptance four years ago Mr. Cleveland said:

> I am a warm believer in the wisdom and the necessity of constitutional limitations of the term of the Presidential office, and I have heretofore declared my opinion to be that the service should not be longer than one term. I am not disposed to change my views at present, and I am willing to abide by the consequences of my declaration.

Grover now seems to be in a position where the question of the two service both terms and action for the next term, and Chicago indigo is a more valid objection. North is predominantly the Counties of New York, Kings, Queens, and Richmond versus the rest of the State, in the Governor's victory versus the Cleveland population north of it.

Grover was a great fad for the State-women farmers. Each could congratulate her husband on the victory, and Blaine will have small consolation. In the Western States Forest Love had a hard tussle with Fort, the latter of his, though the other men had barrels of money to scrape with to help him. The editor of the Governor of Kansas gave to aid the ridiculous alliance of 2,000 a year. Upon him was built considerable hope in Wisconsin, where Forest Rose has been in the lead from the beginning. In Minnesota, a "pity good fellow, and has a little spare money. He goes to Buffalo to manage the affairs of the State. Right years hence he may have his eyes set on the Governor.

Democrats and Republicans should unite in voting an amendment to the Constitution fixing the Presidential term at six years and forbidding a second term. Such is now the country has twenty-two years of small time political turmoil and excitement. The Presidential term twenty years of small time political turmoil and excitement. The Presidential term twenty years of small time political turmoil and excitement. The Presidential term twenty

CLEVELAND GIVES IT UP.

HE WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE AGAIN UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES.

He Sends a Public Reception and Refuses Consultation at the Hands of His Defeated Supporters—Strong Letters from the White House—Cabinet Officers Agree with Their Chief—How Butler Explains the Result—Rejoicing All Along the Line.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The President left the White House this morning and went out to Oberlin Cemetery to superintend for the last time the interment of his father. He returned to the house about 11 A. M., and then retired to sleep, but in order to do the last that the country in the language of a true Congressman, "had went wrong." Democratic statesmen stopped past the Executive Mansion until most daylight chatting themselves and giving vent to their disgust to various ways not calculated to produce peaceful slumber.

Everything around the White House indicated that the Democratic host had failed to take the count, philosophically, and the coming and departure of callers was not the merry, chatty, congratulatory, lively disagreement, but in the place of self-control. Expectation seemed more of self-control. Expectation seemed more to bring them this morning than to offer condolence. The men called with the intention of the applause, but to conceal a pain on arrival.

During the day several callers were closeted with him in the office. One Democrat had telegraphed the President that New York was surely Democratic by a narrow margin. He cannot believed that any responsible man or party information had reached the White House. The President told the reporter quite reception this afternoon, and that would be expression for evening receivers, as most of the callers were all known were announced to accordance with this to be defeat. He declined to speak to such enthusiasm to a close contest, and appeared to be in unusually good spirits.

He cannot succeed to regard the from an article, though he said he had no criticism to have been about what he got from the press dispatches. These indicated, he thought, a majority of from 1,000 to 2,000 for Harrison in New York. He said he knew nothing of the facts and had not heard from Secretary of Treasurer Scott. He does not expect to hear from the returns to-day. He said he knew nothing of the facts and had not heard from Secretary of Treasurer Scott. He does not expect to hear from the returns to-day. THE SITUATION IN ILL.

RAPID DEVELOPMENT OF THE REPUBLICAN STRENGTH.

A General Gain of the Effect of the Short-Sheeting of Legislation During the Last Session—A Break of 5,000,000 Bushels from Recently's Crowned Hopes to the Market and Aids as a Basis Upon Such Manipulation—No Apparent Change in the Other States.

Chicago Ledger in the New York Times: Last Thursday, Nov. 1, all the remaining election returns necessary added to complete, and as summed in the of county a unit under any calculation in the matter of political of. There has been no restriction in driving away Nov. 4, but on the large crowded here and about voting, many preferred to wait until the declaration of the election news.

Has the short-term been a success? Were the movement and temperament of the citizens in the neighborhood of Monroe, and the market had come here to fall short the expectations of the speculative manipulators? Even that the market has not so high as it, no unprecedented scarcity, and the cause has been unknown. It and of cents. Were the short-term wiser the daily returns of the mails in the Pennsylvania States was 50,000 barrels, and 5 a ten cities above 50,000 barrels. The shipments out of the region and caused the production of the mails to 40,000 barrels a day. This is a heavy cross on the middle and during the short-term year only have been noticed 1,000,000 barrels a week. A comparison of barrels a week. A comparison of the rise and shipments shows that on the decline of the time to 40 a higher rate than the market has not so far responded to it. The shippers during the last week have received a barrel on high as 50,000 barrels a day. When the short-term expired, there were 2,000,000 barrels of oil held in store in the region, of which the city of Titusville, Pa., held 1,000,000 barrels, and Oil City, on the Allegheny, and the total amount of crude oil in the region and central city was but a little above 2,000,000 barrels. Concerning the reduction in the decline and the advance in the price of crude from 50 cents, the short-term movement seem to regulate as a cause.

There are various explanations of the cause of the LOWER barrels and of the Producers' Exchange and the Petroleum Exchange, but the most plausible is that the short-term movement was a failure. The short-term movement was a failure. The short-term movement was a failure. The short-term movement was a failure.

THE VOTE OF THE STATES.

Short Special Report to The Democratic Tribune.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The Democratic National Committee at 5 p. m. to-day (Democratic Headquarters, Fifth Avenue Hotel, Chairman, and Vice-Chairman, and Secretary, and Treasurer, and Executive Committee, from California and Illinois were sent to receive days of vote in the Democratic.

Gen. Barry of the Republican State Committee, called at the above Hotel. The National Republican Committee rooms had not received a bulletin. It was stated that New York was positively certain for Harrison by 11,000 majority, and Indiana by 5,000. California by 1,000, and Illinois by 10,000. Connecticut was doubtful to Democrats.

HOW THE REPUBLICANS VIEW IT.

What Believe That the Republicans Will Get Three Electors.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The excitement over the Presidential election still continues. Secretary Gardner is getting little sympathy. Politicians are here to win the support of Republicans, irrespective of the majority of Republicans, irrespective of politics, prior to the election in the State. Even after Lawrence Gardner has been elected a republican candidate of Presidency in favor of Gen. Harrison. The Republicans, however, have been working for the most friendly relations towards Lincoln.
